

Privacy Policy

NewFictonWriters, Inc., is in the business of publishing great fiction for your entertainment . We do not and never will sell, or give away your information to any other party, under any circumstances, unless directed by court order and then only if it is required by law, or the men in the black SUV's are holding guns to our heads.

In the process of doing business with us via PayPal.com, we will see the e-mail address you use to log onto PayPal with but not your password or financial information. We do not receive financial information at all, nor do we wish to. Any dealings you have with a sponsor, beginning with the act of visiting that sponsor's website, has nothing to do with us and we take no responsibility for it. We just provide the link.